ays been a winning card in alt Lake, and with the bright aggregation of players "The Sait Lakers' have brought together, the coming presentation of "The Serenade" ought to prove no exception. Everyone remembers the great hit this opera made here when given by the Bostonians. It was second only to the successful "Robin Hood" revived two years ago by our amateurs with as-

The strong cast which the new company has brought together, with a skilled musician like Spencer Clawson, Jr., at its head, ought to ensure a rarely fine entertainment. The final rehearsals are being conducted by J. D.

Spencer, which is another guarantee of efficiency. The east will be as already printed by The News, Mr. Williams, the baritone, who went east with the body of his wife, returning in time to fill his role, out of loyalty to the coin-pany, which found it impossible to fill

Members of the chorus are as follows:

Members of the chorus are as follows:
Sopranos—Miss Ivy Evans, Miss Ciarabelle Gardner, Miss Stella Poulton,
Miss Edna Hampton, Miss Nellie Poulton,
Miss Edna Hampton, Miss Nellie Poulton,
Miss Louise Hagman, Miss Zola
Baglèy, Miss Mignon Denhalter.
Altos—Miss Mayme Summerhays,
Miss Esther Davis, Miss Viginia
Smith, Rae Campbell, Nan Clawson, Gertrude Romney.
Tenors—Mr. R. M. Perkins, Mr. Karl Samuelson, Mr. George Summerhays,
Mr. George Glade, Mr. Abbie Brain,
Mr. James Moncatr, Mr. Shirl Clawson, Bassos—Melvin Peterson, John Aird,
Lorenzo Smith, Rulon Robinson, Lyle
Smith, Alma Clayton, Serge B, Campbell.

It will please the many Sait Lake friends of Nance O'Nell, who have been wondering whether her talents would ever receive due recognition, to learn that she has been made head member of the great stock company which David Belasco is establishing in New York. He intends to form an organization along the lines of the Augustin Daly company, and every member is an accomplished player like Nance O'Nell herself, capable of doing Shakespeare today, and low comedy tomorrow. Miss O'Nell's fellow players, whom Belasco has brought together, include Bruce McRae, Aubrey Boucicault, Julia Dean, Florence Nash, Robert Robson, Charles Cartwright and cault, Julia Dean, Florence Nash, Rob-ert Robson, Charles Cartwright and many others. It is to be a permanent resident stock company in New York City, and to be known as the David Be-lasco company. It will occupy the Stuyvesant theater and produce four plays a year, the first of which, Be-lasco's "The Lily," is now being re-hearsed.

On Monday night and for the half week at the Sait Lake theater, will be seen "Lo," a musical comedy under the management of the Harry Askin company, which is said to be establish-ing a distinctly new era in musical his role on such short notice.

tonishing success.

greatest ventriloquist who ever appeared at an Orpheum theater. He is sailed "The ventriloquist with a production" and he has gone to a world of trouble and expense to stage his offerings. He makes his entrance in a big automobile and before he is through there is a procession of dumny figures moving at his command secross the stage. The Duffin-Redcay troupe, consist-ng of four men, have a thrilling cast-

Ing act.

Pilu is the quaint name of a most extraordinary dog brought to America by Signor D. Ancillotti, an animal trainer of note in Europe,

Patrice, the well known comedienne, will appear in the playlet, "The Lobbyist," written by Herbert Haif Wins-

The Hopkins sisters, Ethel and Em-

tractions which the castern home of-fice has sent to the west, by many it will be regarded as the very strongest. It consists of the play "The Man From Home," written by Booth Tarkington and arry Leon Wilson, and brought out in New York with the actor Hodge in the central role. The attraction is out in New York with the actor Hodge in the central role. The attraction is sent here by Llebler & Co., affers of the Shuberts, the same firm which gave us 'The Squaw Man," 'Salomy Jane," etc. The opening date is Wednesday next, and matinees will be given Thursdays affernion and Saturday.

The theme of "The Man From Home" is the folly of international marriages. The authors have deliberately set forth, it is understood, with the idea of heaping ridicale upon this form of republication.

ng ridicale upon this form of repub-ican insanity, and according to the success the play has achieved in Chicago and New York, have more than X 0000000000000000000000000000000 X MISS AMY OSBORNE AS DOLORES AND MR. DOUGALL AS ALVAR ADO.

In "The Serenade," at the Salt Lake Theater, Nov. 25, 26, 27.

illed "Luna-Land."

Chassino, the shadowgraphist, is back from Europe for a special tour over the Orpheum circuit.

ing a distinctly new era in musical plays.

With its book and lyrics by O. Henry and Franklin P. Adams, two literateuts who stand highest in their respective fields today, music by A. Baldwin Sloane, and rehearsed under the management of Harry Askin, the man who handled the productions of the Askin-Singer company, "The Time, the Place and the Girl," and "The Gtri Question," there ought to be little question as to the standing of the new venture. A musical program up to the Salt Lake Orpheum's standard, and new kinodrome pictures complete the bill.

* * * "The Girl Question," described as a "musical coinedy sprinkled with heart throbs," comes to the Colonial theater next week, this being its second engagement in Salt Lake City.

John L. Kearney plays the part of Con Ryan, manager of the restaurant, the principal wale role. He has little John E. Young, the featured member of the east, has a role somewhat similar to that of "Happy" Johnny Hicks, a part he has played for the past two years in "The Time, the Place and the Girl," but his speeches, while slangy and idiomatic, have that distinction and atmosphere of class about them which make O. Henry's writings in imitable. The plot of "Lo" concerns largely the attempt of a beautiful cosmopolite countess to start a revolution in South America. Mr. Young has been in former years an assistant revolutionary leader and he has had all he wants of South American revolutions. Cohan's "Talk of New York" and the undying "In Old Kentucky" follow "Lo." Con Ryan, manager of the restaurant, the principal male role. He has little to do in the singing line. His ready repertoire of gags and slang, however, is sufficient to keep him busy during the sessions he has in persuading two girls to give him some answer to "The Girl Question." Cute little Dorothy Maynard has a sweet voice and is a bright, magnetic little coquette. Her position as cashier in the restaurant gives her an excellent opportunity to exercise all of her wites. Helen Mc-Gowan has the most serious part of the A bill to which the most captious cannot take exception is promised by the Oprheum management for the coming week.

Mary Norman has the principal offering, "Some Types of Women," in which she presents scenes from the lives of several actresses, both before and be-exercise all of her wiles. Heien Mc-Gowan has the most serious part of the play, that of Joe Forster, a waitress in the same restaurant, a true girl, who is in love with Con, the manager, but is too brave to let him know it when he comes to her and asks her help in composing a love letter to his sweetheart, the cashier. Anna Hawthorne is Mrs. Sears, wife of the financier and railroad magnate of that name. There is a large and well drilled chorus, in fact, the management pride themselves on the excellence of its organization. There will be matiness Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

. . .

Ind the scenes.

Ed P. Reynard is believed to be the bert will be one of the strongest at-

DOROTHY MAYNARD AS EFFIE DAVIS, "Girl Question" Colonial Theater.

of opinion in both cities is that ho more delightful, entertaining play has been seen in recent years, and that its success is due as much to the honely spirit of truth as to its clean, wholesome nature.

The play which made Harry Woods

The play which made Harry Wood-ruff famous, "Brown of Harvard," is to be the next offering at the Grand. to be the next offering at the Grand. It is particularly appropriate for Thanksgiving week, as it is known as the best of all college plays, full of snap, life and ginger, but containing a somewhat serious plot. Mr. McCurlough will of course fill Woodraff's role of Tom Brown, the hero who gets into all sorts of trouble by helping a fellow student, and by standing in the shoes of a forger, the brother of the girl he loves. Miss Douglas will also have a charming role in the part of Evelyn Kenyon, while Messrs. Booth, Allen, Rennie. Alcine, Moore and Misses Outtrin, Richards, Dainty, Prior and Stone, with the other members of the cast will all be suitably recognized.

The management announce in addition to the regular Wednesday and Saturday afternoon matinees, a special performance on Thanksgiving day.

The Bungalow bill which is pleasing the patrons this week, will remain without change up to Wednesday next. The headliners are the "Still City Quartet" in their capital skit entitled "Watch the Fans," Performances are given each afternoon and evening.

The new Mission theater is rapidly The new Mission theater is rapidly nearing completion and the opening date will occur next month. The orchestra leader has already been chosen in the person of Prof. C. Molieroup, one of Salt Lake's best known musicians. He is a native of Denmark, and his father was solo cornetist in the Royal Theater of Copenhagen for 25 years. His brother is at present flutist in the same organization.

Mr. Molleroup came to Salt Lake in 1889, and has held a lending position both as violinist and cornetist for a long time past. He should be able to make the musical department of the Mission Theater decidedly attractive.

THEATER GOSSIP

Mrs. Lesife Carter is suing the Den-ver Post for $100,000 damages for a criticism she didn't like

"The Giaseblowers," a new opera by ohn Paililp Sousa, will be produced bout the first of the year,

Sir Herbert Tree revived "Trilby" in His Majesiy's theater, London last week. He himself, of course, is once again the Sveaguil. Vola Tree is the heroine, Henry Ainley, Little Billes: Edward Sass, Taffy, and Jules Shaw, the Laird.

Mine. Nazimova, acording to the Matinee Girl in the Dramatic Mirror, still stumbles a hit over her English, and especially whou she is earnestly concentrated upon her rehearsals. The other day she corrected the dilatory reading of a line with the impatient cry; "Quick! Up hurry!"

accomplishes anything without hard work."

"But you certainly have worked too hard these last few months." said Mrs. Favershum. "I was afraid you were going to be real ill at one time."

"But see what I have accomplished." replied fhe actor proudly.

NOT HARD TO BE A KING.

Hamilton Revelle, William Hawtrey, Edwin Brendt, Helen Freeman, and others. The piece will be seen in New York in due time.

Charies Frohman has put his hand to a trans-Atlantic exchange that will in-volve two companies and at the same time serve as a means of introducing Gerald du Maurier to New York. Mr. Frohman has determined upon Easter week as the date for bringing to the Lyceum theater, New York, the Arsene Lupin company playing at the Duke of York's theater, London, and sending the American company to London.

Liebler & Co., have arranged with Louis N. Parker, who is spending a few weeks in the United States, to localize for London Mr. Patterson's "The Fourth Estate," now running at Wallack's, New York. Mr. Parker believes that with a few changes made to conform to the different conditions in the two countries, it will be as favorably received by English audiences as it has been by New Yorkers.

At the end of an engagement of four weeks of William Faversham in Stephen Phillips' drama, "Herod," Mr. Paversham will take the entire production on a tour through the west to the Pacific coast. At the conclusion of their season Mr. Faversham and his wife, Julie Opp, will go abroad to meet Mr. Phillips, the author, in London. The three will make a tour of the Holy Land to collect material for a drama which Mr. Phillips will write on the story of Judith and Holofernes.

The late John Davidson left a written The late John Davidson left a written request that the following named plays and adaptations, which he had made, should never be published or performed. He asked all persons happening to possess conies of all or any of these works to destroy them: "Queen Fiammetta." "The Children of the King." "Fauny Le Grand." "Phedre," "Lancelot," "The Game of Life," and a one-act piece from the French produced at the London Court Theater whose title he could not remember.

Ned Royle's New Play Brings Him Strongly into the Limelight

n the St. Louis Times on the subject of 'The Great American Drama.' regretting the fact that up to the pres-ent time, the long awaited dramatist had not yet put in an appearance, the editor says;

Yet there must be drama, vigorous Yet there must be draina, vigorous, virile, and tremendous, in the exposition of American life. Have we no dramatists worthy of writing this Great American Play? Belasco, you will say yet after all, his successes have been of a scenic nature, and after each Belasco, success some unknown author. asco success some unknown author rises to cry for a share in the glory Augustus Thomas? His greatest play "Arizona," came perilously near being the great American drama, yet degen-erated only into melodrama, Edwin Milton Royle? His play, "The Squaw Milton Royle? His play, "The Squaw Man," created a sensation because it was something new. It enjoyed the distinction of being the first American made play to achieve undoubted triumph in England. It represented American types in a bold, forceful, natural manner. It was the life of the west, transplanted with color, atmosphere, characters and dramatic strength. On the whole, Mr. Royle must be awarded the credit of having produced in "The Squaw Man" the best American drama of recent years. Is it the great American drama, destined to live as the embodiment of American western life in the first decade of the twentieth centhe first decade of the twentieth cen tury? We do not know, but Mr. Royle's play certainly is in the running, as racing men would say.

American playwrights which has been won by Mr. E. M. Royle of this city, is well evidenced by editorial which appeared recently he St. Louis Times on the subject of the Great American Drama." After heard all the evidence. But judging by past performances, to again quote rac-ing vernacular, we should judge that if anyone is capable of writing the great American drama, that man is Edwin Milton Royle, and we shall await "These Are My People" with interest and curiosity.

> Since this article was written, the Desert News has received copies of the St. Louis papers containing enthus-iastic reviews of Mr. Royle's new play, The Globe Democrat says:
> "There is so much that is meritorious to an extraordinary degree in the new play at the Garrick. "These Are My People," which was presented last night, that the day which witnessed the night, that the day which witnessed the writing of this drama should be set down in red letters in the annual record of the theaters. No one who will permit himself to be entertained by a capital story, presented with only the rarest lapses in skill, and superbly played, will fail to come away from the Garrick this week in a delightful state of elation. 'These Are My People' is a play for everybody.'

The Post Dispatch concludes a column review, in which our old friend umn review, in which our old friend Campeau is given special mention, with the following paragraph:

"These Are My People, remarkable because of taking up the broken thread of an earlier play, is more remarkable because of making an unqualifid suc-because of making an unqualified suc-

SCENE FROM THE "MAN FROM HOME" At The Shubert, Commencing Wednesday, Nov. 4.

Faversham Talks Entertainingly Of His New Venture

HARGED with conduct unbecoming a matinee idol in that he has seen fit to conceal his classic features neath a cluster facial foliage, Mr. William Faverham pleads guilty to every count in the beard indictment and throws himself on the mercy of his thousands of dimirers. But he absolutely refuses to be neiters him in Herod, the part he is laying this season, and in which he was regard the artistic senses of his season, and in which he was regard the artistic senses of his season, and in which he was regard the artistic senses of his season, and in which he was regard the artistic senses of his season. he has seen fit to conceal his of fucial foliage, Mr. William Faversham pleads guilty to every count in the beard indictment and throws himself on the mercy of his thousands of admirers. But he absolutely refuses to come out from behind the bush which shelters him in Herod, the part he is playing this season, and in which he has scored the artistic success of his

Would you mind telling why you "Would you mind telling why you chose to play a bewhiskered old mon-arch when you might have gone on playing the modern roles in which you have been so successful?" asked a New York Hersid reporter of Mr. Faversham last week.

"That's just it," was the answer. "I

"That's just it," was the answer. "I might have gone on playing those parts this forever, and I wouldn't have advanced a bit further in my profession. Some of my best friends have said to me: "What's the use of smearing your face all up with whiskers at your age? Pirteen or 20 years from now will be time enough for you to play those parts. As it is you are working twice as hard as you need to." That's where I lose patience with them. No man accomplishes anything without hard work."

"But you certainly have worked too

NOT HARD TO BE A KING.

"Tell him about the way your beard came loose on the opening night," Mrs. Faversham.

drs. Faversham.

"I hope I never shall go through such an experience again," said Mr. Faversham.

"I hope I never shall go through such an experience again," said Mr. Faversham.

"We opened in Albany, and I had been working night and day getting everything in readiness. It takes me about an hour and a half to make up my face at the present time, but on the opening night I must have spent three hours making sure that my beard was on fast. In the last act of the piece I am supposed to have gone mad over the death of the queen. I face the audience for almost the entire act.

"I made my entrance in Albany all right, but before I had spoken 10 words I realized that my beard was falling off. There I was at the most serious moment of the play, on the opening night, with a crowded house, with my face hairs coming loose. I managed to keep them on for awhile by pressing my hands to my chin as if in deep thought. But there were several line which called for sweeping gestures and to prevent my beard dropping off I was corapelled to bend over backward until my head nearly touched the floor.

"And while I was in this predicament I saw that some of the success had not More than a hundred performers are required for Conan Doyle's play, "The lit's hard work being a stage king?" asked the reporter. "Not any more, because the performance in Chicago next month. I The cast will include Lionel Barrymore, libred himself never had as many across the top of their heads. I wasn't MARY NORMAN.

Who Appears at the Orpheum All Nex t Week in "Some Types of Women."

ng a burlesque of the situation."
|Are some of the supers ambitious?" Are some of the supers ambitious?"
"Too much so. I have seven or eight men who really show promise, but I don't dare tell them that. For example one night in the mob scene in the second act one of the supers rolled down the steps of the temple when he male his entrance. It added to the realism of the situation and I hunted him up simulating madness that night. It was the real thing. Some how or other I to the others and the next night managed to get through without makto the others and the next night alse 40 of the supers rolled down the ste They came very near turning tragedy into an acrobatic perform

SALT LAKE THEATRE Geo. D. Pyper,

3 NIGHTS MONDAY, NOV. 22nd

18 MUSICAL NUMBERS

COUNTLESS LAUGHS.

JOHN E.

The Original Johnny Hicks in "The Time, the

In The Big Musical Comedy

Book and Lyries by O. Henry and F. P. Adams. Music by A. Baldwin Sloane.

32 Most Fascinating Young Cirls on the Stage

SEATS NOW SELLING.

PRICES: Eve. 50c to $1.50. Mat. 25c to $1.00.

NEXT ATTRACTION:

THREE NIGHTS AND MATINEES BEGINNING WITH

Thanksgiving Matinee

Home Production of Victor Herbert's Greatest Comic Opera

MUSICAL DIRECTION OF SPENCER CLAWSON JR. THE BEST LOCAL SINGERS, ENLARGED ORCHESTRA. Prices-Eve. 25c to $1.00. Box Seats, $1.50 Matinees, 25c and 50c. Children 25c anywhere.

SEATS GO ON SALE TUESDAY

COLONIAL THEA

ALL NEXT WEEK

much Mooted Problem Singing, Dancing.

THE GIRL QUESTION

John. L. Kear-ney. Dorothy Waynard, Helen McGowan, Well drilled chorus, Smartly Gowned. George Cohan. Boys' Eddie Foy

Large Company. Mostly Girls

All Girls Extra Thanksgiving Day Mat. Regular Matinees, Wednesday and Saturday.

NEXT ATTRACTION "IN WYOMING."

BUNGALO

PANTAGES VAUDEVILLE Matinee Daily excepting Mon., 2:30

LUIGI PICARO TROUPE.

YALE AND SIMPSON. CANABIS. STILL CITY QUARTETTE. RAMSDELL TRIO. Matinee: 10c, 20c, 30c

Prices-10c, 20c, 30c, 50c, Next Week-CONSEL, JR., the Man Monkey